Dedication

To Our Mothers

To you, Oh, wonderful mothers,
Who care and understand;
To you, Oh, guardian angels,
Who have led us by the hand.

To you, who inspire the successes
Which mark our college days;
To you, who deserve all the honor
And to whom we give all the praise.

To you, who have guided us wisely;
To you, whom we ever hold dear;
To you, who for us have so oft sacrificed
And shielded us all through each year.

To you, our mothers who can sympathize
As no one else we have known;
To you, whom we love with all our hearts,
Because you mean to us—home.

To you, whom we joyfully honor
And whom we will cherish always,
We lovingly offer this memory book
Of our bright, happy, Intermont days.

—Dorothy Holmes.

Foreword

In this 1928 Intermont we have tried to store up for you memories of the happy days you have spent at Intermont and remind you of the high ideals and splendid example of Intermont's faculty and of the loyal spirit of the Intermont girls. If it meets with your approval we shall be amply repaid for the many hours spent in its preparation.

Campanile

"Oh trees of freshest foliage and straight stems."

"A cool recess, where flowering shrubs upturn luxuriant blossoms bright with morning dew."

"And can this fragrant lawn with its cool trees afford no balm?"

"Here we may sit and rightly spell of every star that heaven doth shew, and every herb that sips the dew."

sweet and true,
She has the looks—that hair—that smile—and eyes of bluest blue.*

Dear Eula, we have had heap much fun together; haven't we? Remember the good times we had under some chestnuts trees not don't forget chestnuts you must but don't must wait times. You are not real must get fun this you won't to forget me as personal

far from here that there is every fall and come out again
 mean that you until that certain must come to soon. And we together on some summer.
 have a chance for I will be reminders

Class Poem

MEMORIES

Thru a garden of mellow perfume,
Of incense faint and rare,
The River Lethe wanders
In numbing stillness there.

Lethe, the grave of sorrows,
The soothing bearer of rest,
The murmuring soul of oblivion—
The River Forgetfulness.

But e'er from the river rising
Are harbingers of the dawn,
Infinite mists afloat—
Our memories lingering on.

Like soft-tinted clouds a-drifting
The loveliest vapors are wont
To rise in filmy profusion—
Our memories of Intermont.

—Mildred Griffith.

Senior Class History

The Senior Class of 1928 pauses on the threshold of her dear old Alma Mater and—ere departing—gazes with misty eyes into the past. Thus it will ever be—memories, tender and sacred, of the years she has spent behind the ivy-clothed walls preparing herself to face the great open world beyond.

In the fall of 1926 there were only two girls, Martha Crittenden and Alice Shepard, in the Junior Class who, having been high school students at this institution in former years, knew the customs and nature of Intermont. The other eighty-eight girls who made up the Junior Class of 1927 were “strangers from stranger lands” but who, under the able leadership of Miss Emma L. Stoddard as Sponsor, and Lois Taylor as President, soon learned to love, admire, and be loyal to Intermont.

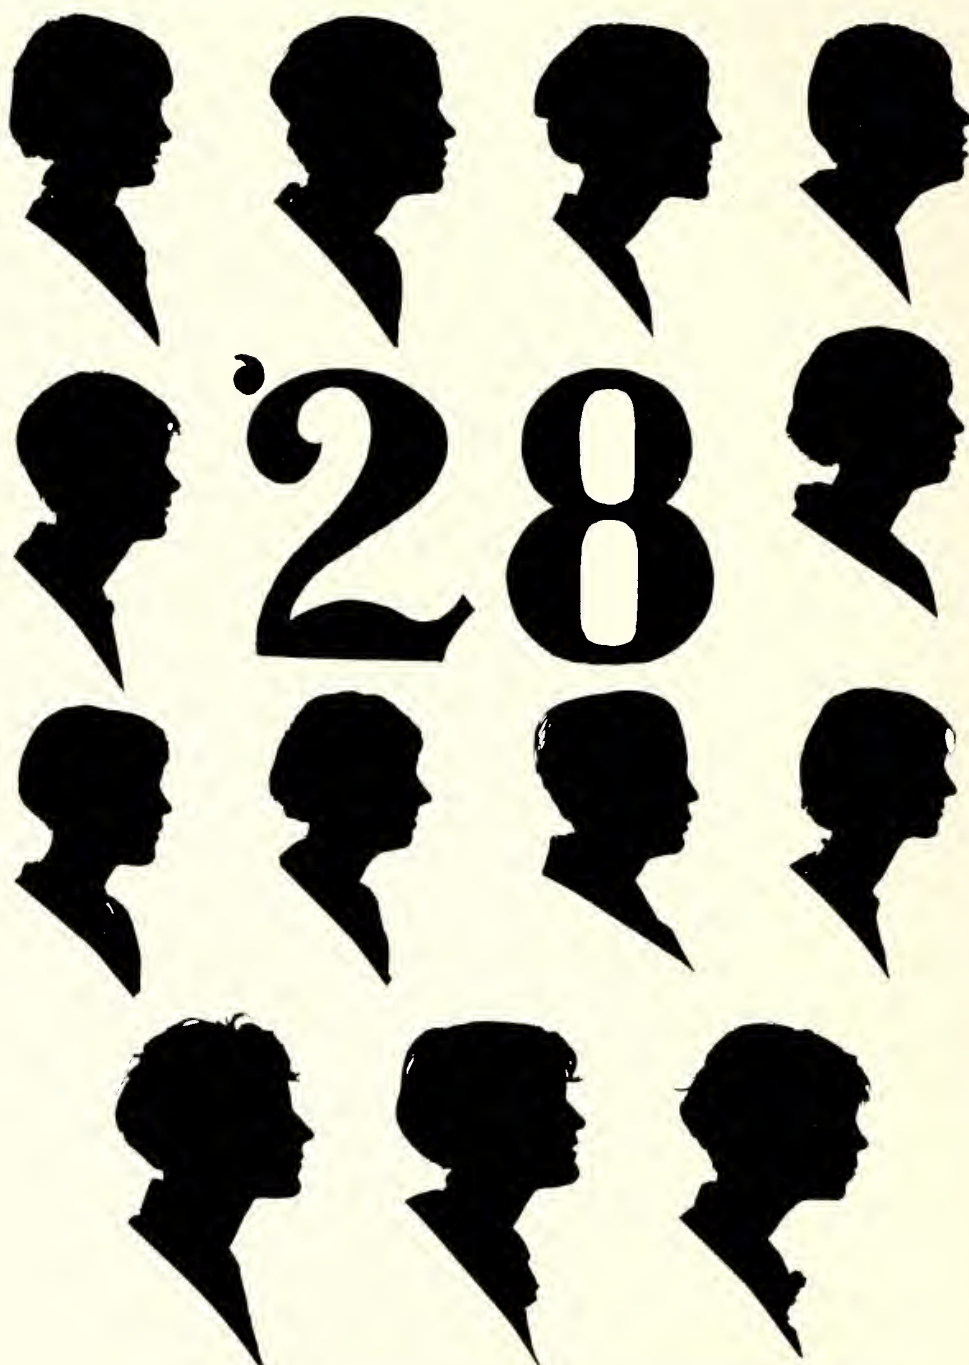

In the fall of 1927, the class was reorganized under the leadership of Lois Taylor with Miss Pflug as Sponsor. Only sixty-one of the ninety former Juniors returned. Twenty-nine had fallen out of the ranks for various reasons and their places had been refilled by twenty-nine ready recruits from the Advanced Special Class of 1927. Three girls who had formerly been students of the college but who had dropped out for a year or two registered once more as students, and as Seniors. Two students from Marion College, one from Tusculum and one from West Virginia Wesleyan filed in among the other Seniors, thus making a total of 97 in the Senior Class. This is the largest Senior Class in Intermont's history. Twenty of this number are town students which is rather remarkable considering the fact that there were only eight town students in the Senior Class of 1927.

Among these girls is almost any and every type one could find anywhere. Is this unnatural, however, when Brazil, Greece, Argentina, the District of Columbia, and twelve states are represented?

Of talent the Senior Class has no small amount as is designated by the fact that 14 diplomas in Voice and Piano will be awarded. Two students will receive diplomas in both Piano and Voice. Sixty-four Literary diplomas, three Art Diplomas, five Secretarial Diplomas, and eight Home Economics Diplomas will be awarded to those who succeed in their present plans and attempts to march through!

In 1927 Dorothy Holmes and Lois Taylor, who were among the five who won for Intermont the first Inter-Collegiate Debating victory, were awarded medals of honor. Mildred Griffith and Eva Lee Derring were awarded scholarships for making high averages in Junior English. The College Sextet consists of Dorothy Holmes, Goldia Dalton, Mary Wright, Elizabeth Wright, Lois Taylor and Julia Waters, all of whom are members of the Senior Class of 1928.

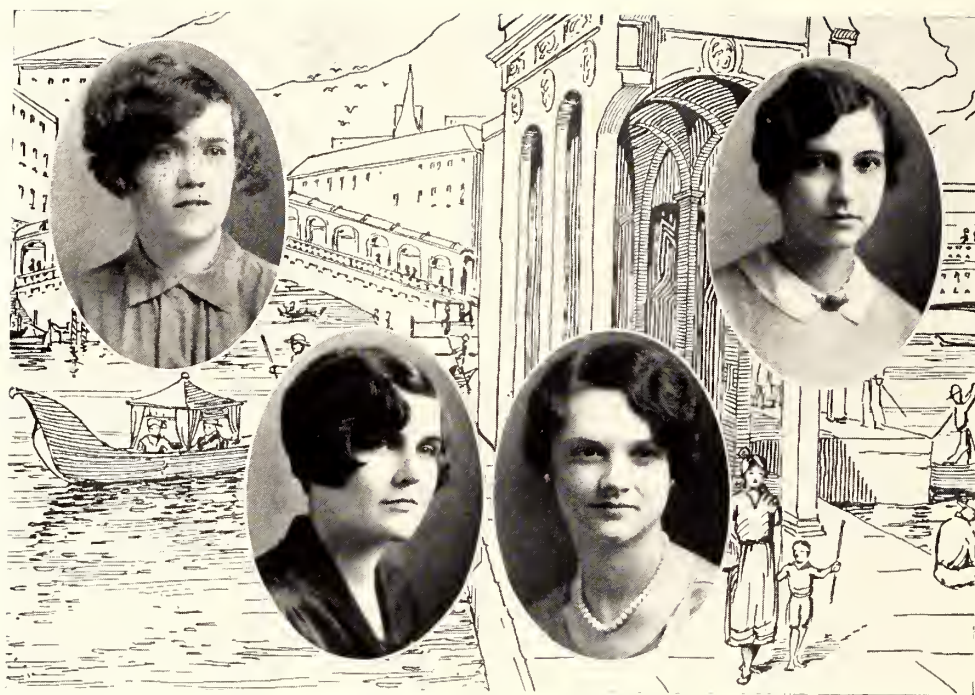

The Senior Class of 1928 awakens from her dreams of the past, and turns with saddened eyes to the reality of the future, knowing that as a dreamer loves his dreams, thus she will cherish and guard within her heart these memories forever.

Under the Spotlight

The Department of Dramatics has great pride in the work for 1927-28, especially as we recall our feeling of discouragement in the beginning of the year in facing the fact that several of our last year's "stars," who had been "shining lights" for two or three years previous, were no longer with us. However, we said, "the work must go on, and the high standards must be maintained," and so we bravely set out to work to discover and to develop new talent.

Our first plays, planned for Hallowe'en, but postponed until November 5, were a great success. There was the thrilly, chilly, spooky play, "Lady Anne," in which the Ghost suddenly appears out of a secret panel in the wall. The girls composing this cast were Tommie Edmondson, Alma Counts, Dorothy McDaniel and Gladys Rowland. On this same program, and quite befitting the season of spooks, was that mysterious, hair-raising, almost blood-curdling play, "The Dweller in the Darkness." Sara Cox, Mildred Griffith, Sidney Newton, Opal Reynolds, Sophia Sims and Eleanor Blum made up the very excellent cast of this play.

Next came our much-loved Christmas play, which will linger long in the minds of all who had part in it or witnessed its performance. It was in this play, "The Goose Hangs High," we were convinced there was some real dramatic talent among the new girls. Each part was well taken and the play made a profound impression on the large audience.

On February 11 there was another group of delightful one-act plays. "The Telegram," which many will recall as one of the cutest little plays of the whole year, was nicely presented by five girls—Marian Emerson, Mary Jeffreys, Amanda Brown, Marguerite Meador and Billy Elliott. The next play was a funny little farce, "His Day Off," given by Sidney Newton, Gladys Rowland, Alize Cole and Hawes White. A clever, rollicking farce, "Henry, Where Are You?," closed this evening's program. The cast of this play was composed chiefly of day students who played well their parts—Mary Jones, Lucile Hayworth, Carita Fleenor, Pauline Holt, Opal Reynolds, Mabel Miller and Evelyn Tucker.

The evening of February 29 marked an occasion of great pleasure and real entertainment when four plays, widely varying in style, were presented. "By the Valentine Tree," a most artistic fairy-like play, was given by the children's dramatic class. Following this was the unique and beautiful playlet, "A Midnight Fantasy," so charmingly played by Gladys Rowland representing the old-fashioned girl, and Dorothy McDaniel the strictly modern girl. Sara Cox, Sophia Sims and Mildred Griffith composed the cast of the next play of the evening, "Smouldering Fires," which was a thrilling little romance and was well acted by the three girls taking part. This dramatic program was concluded with a comedy-drama, "Thursday Evening." The four girls making up this cast were Tommie Edmondson, Alma Counts, Eleanor Blum and Opal Reynolds.

One month later, March 31, three more plays were added to the list. First on this program was a most unusual and very appealing play, "Lijah," in which Opal Reynolds played the lead in the role of the old judge; she was ably supported by Sidney Newton, Alma Counts and Gladys Rowland. In the next play, "Fleurette & Company," Sara Cox and Tommie Edmondson did some very artistic work and charmed the audience by their almost professional acting. The last of the three plays of this group was a play long-to-be-remembered—"Mansions." To be sure that this play was well received we have only to recall that the nature of that beautiful play and the excellent acting of the girls who played the parts caused the audience to weep and there was no applause as the curtain slowly closed. A perfect tribute to our little play! Dorothy McDaniel, Eleanor Blum and Alma Counts composed the cast of "Mansions."

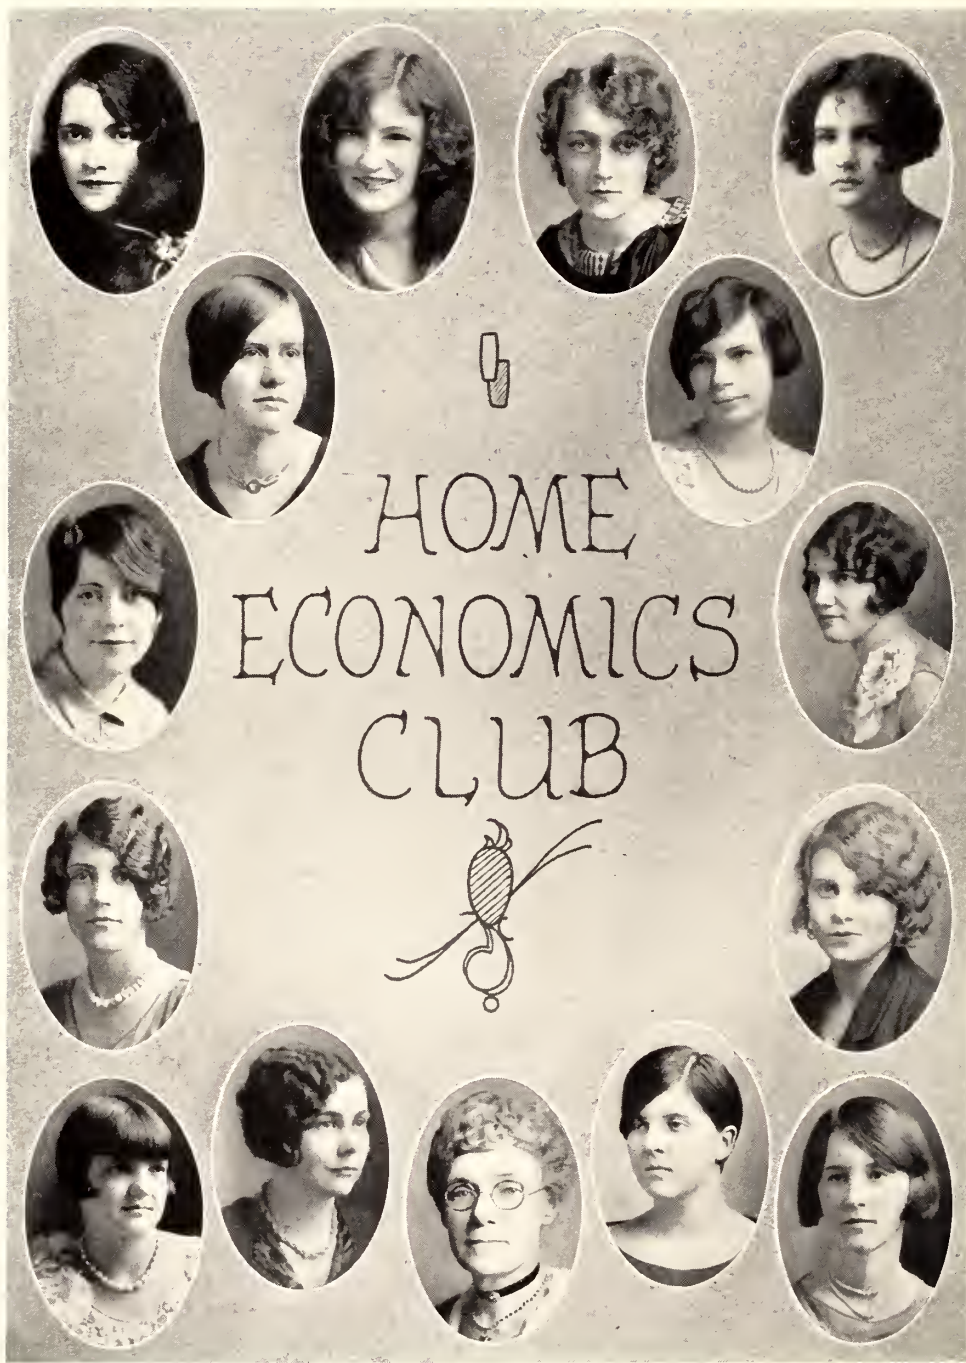

This concluded our dramatic work of the year with the exception of the annual play at Commencement time on May 26, in which we hope to attain to the greatest heights of all, thus bringing an unusually successful year to a great end in our dramatic work.

Y. W. C. A. Organization

The Young Woman's Christian Association occupies a distinct and important place in V. I. College life, which no other organization can, or attempt, to fill.

The purpose of this Association is to associate young women in personal loyalty to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord; to promote growth in Christian character and service through physical, social, mental and spiritual training; to become a social force for the extension of the Kingdom of God.

Gymnastics at Intermont

"Gym," we are told, is quite essential to a sound constitution and a normal up-keep of our bodies, therefore every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday we don the black and white regulations, and appear in the gym for "come what may." Under the capable direction of Miss Nunnally, we go through various drills and exercises, sometimes on the floor, and sometimes in the air, which, however, makes them all the more interesting.

Although the proper thing to do is to fuss and fume, and sometimes even go to the infirmary, because it is "gym" day, we all realize just how important it is, and when we once get on the floor we try to make use of the opportunity to "mark time," "forward march," "tip toe march," "catch step," "fall in fours" and then various exercises, all of which do their bit in giving us just what we need.

Basket-Ball

The first call for basket-ball practice was sounded a few days before December holidays but nothing definite was done until a week or so later. A large number of girls responded to the call and by the middle of January, Coach Waters had things going at a rapid pace.

Team rivalry increased day by day and when the date for the class tourney rolled around, it was hardly safe to let two teams on the court at the same time!!!

March 8, 9, 10 marked the dates for deciding "who was who" in basket-ball at V. I. School spirit and pep was at its height. Each class put up as brave a fight on the side lines as the teams did on the floor.

The opening games brought the Juniors against the Specials and Seniors against the High School. The Juniors and High School emerged victorious. The second day the Junior's proved themselves a smart team by defeating the fast High School five, while the Seniors, displaying a championship brand of basket-ball, defeated the highly vaunted Specials. The final clashes came Saturday night. From the noise coming from the "gym," Intermont was represented one hundred percent and the fans were surely repaid for their enthusiasm. The games were exciting all the way through, starting off with a whiz and ending up with a bang!! This was the test for superiority and the Juniors and High School walked off with the honors. The Juniors, having won three straight games, were presented the trophy, awarded each year to the winning team.

The Dream

One day I was out dreaming,
 On Venecia's waters blue,
 And asked my gondolier
 To tell me something new to do.
 Now I had been in Venice
 For more than a day or two,
 And had seen the great Rialto,
 And the "Bridge of Sighs" passed through.
 I had visited the "Campanile;"
 I had climbed the "Giant Stairs;"
 I had seen the little urchins,
 And judged all the merchants' wares.
 I had gazed at "Victor Emmanuel,"
 And the "Lion" in the square;
 I had visited the "Doge's Palace,"
 With its paintings fine and rare.
 In fact, I'd seen the wonders
 Of that city in the sea.
 And feared the time was approaching
 When I'd be forced to be
 Afar from that city romantic,
 A place that for lovers was made.
 I looked around and about me
 And felt very amply repaid
 For the little effort my journey
 To this end of the world had required;
 And I asked my gondolier
 To tell me what I desired.
 "Have I seen all the sights worth seeing
 In this island city fair?"
 "Not all, dear Signorina,
 You have missed a treat most rare;
 There's a place of historic interest,
 And of wondrous beauty, too,
 But those permitted to enter
 Must belong to the chosen few."
 However, he then added,
 "If milady does so choose,
 I will attempt to get her in
 By some kind of clever ruse."
 Growing much excited
 I inquired tout de suite
 Just what is, where is,
 And how can I have failed to see
 This place that's so mysterious?
 Oh! I can hardly wait,
 You must hurry, gondolier,
 Or else we'll be too late."
 And while we gently glided
 O'er the water's bluish green,
 Rippling and sparkling brightly
 'Neath the sunlight's mellow gleam,
 He told me of the "Hall of Fame,"
 Which as its name suggests,
 Is filled with wondrous portraits,
 Artists, poets and the rest
 Of the famed and celebrated

Of Venecia by the sea.
 Why, I could hardly dare to hope
 They'd ope their doors for me.

We stopped in front of a building,
 Magnificent and old,
 And over the arch of the entrance
 Were letters carved in gold.
 "V. I.'s Hall of Fame," I read.
 "What does 'V. I.' mean?"
 "That stands for Venice, Italy,"
 Said he, and it did seem
 To me that never portals
 Had e'er appeared so fair.
 I wished to see the wonders
 That my guide had said were there.
 I followed him into a hall;
 No words could e'er describe
 How very beauteous it was
 When once I was inside.
 The walls were of gold, I thought,
 The ceiling, orient pearl,
 And diamonds just like dewdrops
 Made the light for this small world.
 I glanced upon the archway
 Leading to the right,
 And there upon its portals, saw
 "Statistics," gleaming bright.
 I hastened in to marvel
 At the new wonders there,
 And what should I first see
 But faces of my classmates fair.
 Lois, Polly, Lucy, Sophia,
 Dot, Pokey, Martha Belle,
 Mary, Louise, Sue, Mary Evelyn,
 Who else I could not tell,
 Were on this ceiling pictured
 With their names engraved below.
 Why, I had only left them
 About a year ago.
 I turned amazed to my guide;
 "Did I have too much wine?
 These portraits—these names here—
 Stand for college-mates of mine."
 "I see!" he answered smiling,
 "And famous now are they,
 That's why in old Venecia,
 We let them hold their sway.
 Perhaps you might remember
 That just outside the door
 You read the letters, 'V. I.'
 Now, 'V. I.' may mean more Than merely Venice, Italy.
 Though to few it is revealed,
 They mean Virginia Intermont.
 Sh! Your lips must be sealed."

The Dream

"My lips shall be," I answered,
"And ne'er a word I'll say
Of all of the surprising sights
You've shown to me today.
I'll confess I'd never heard
Of this wondrous 'Hall of Fame,'
Never have my classmates either,
Not one guesses that her name
Is thus engraved on these walls,
But I shall never tell,
Although the secret burn my heart—
Fear not, all shall be well."
He answered, "Signorina,
I knew that 't would be thus,
For all of V. I. C.'s girls
I find that I can trust;
And now if you desire
I'll show you something more
That concerns your V. I. College
And your classmates of yore.
Please follow me, milady,"
And back into the hall
Into which we first had entered
He led and I left all
The portraits of my classmates
With a regretful glance,
Hoping that some future day,
Perhaps I'd have the chance
To come again and stay
A longer time with them
And dream of old V. I. days,
Each memory a gem.
I glanced up at the archway
Which to the left did lead,
And Features there engraven
In bright gold I did read.
Inside the room I caught my breath,
It was so dazzling bright,
And just as in the other room,
Small diamonds made the light;
The ceiling there was amethyst,
The walls of silvery hue,
The floor mosaic, lovely
With its rose and green and blue,
And all around its walls
Were portraits fair to see.
I looked up into faces
Well known and dear to me.
Mary Wright was there in jet black,
Betty Cleland, winsome Gay,
Julia, dignified and stately,

Martha, jester in the play,
Pat and Husky, princes royal,
Oakey, Shylock, counting gold,
Janet Lewis, Shylock's daughter,
Louise and Billy, boys of old—
Such a galaxy of beauty
Magically transplanted there.
They were smiling at me gaily
In Venetian costumes fair,
They looked very well contented,
Their expressions were serene,
And they seemed to say, "Dear classmate,
We are sure you've never seen
Anything that's quite so perfect
As our pictures on the wall."
And they did look so enchanting,
I could just have hugged them all.
Just how long I might have stood there
I'd be very hard to say,
But my gondolier said, "Lady,
Though it would be nice to stay,
It is late; we must be going,
For we have a long, long way."
"Nothing in my whole experience
Heretofore compares with this;
I can never, never thank you
For this lovely hour of bliss.
But, my gondolier, pray tell me
Why has no one in the land
Ever told me of the famous
'Hall of Fame' in which we stand.
I think Intermont should know it
And learn of the honor rare
The 'Queen of the Adriatic'
Bestows upon her daughters fair.
If only I could find a way
For them to find this hall—
But, I have promised, gondolier,
And I'll keep my word to all.
So let us leave these portals
Which now to me are dear;
Whene'er I come to Venice
I will pay a visit here
First of all, now that you've shown me
Just how wonderful and grand
Is the fame of Intermont College.
Though I go through every land,
None to me will e'er be fairer
Than Venecia by the sea,
Sweet Venecia, whose initials
Bring to mind dear V. I. C."

THE THRIFTY SCOTCH?

Bloodhounds are the most Scotch of dogs because they are the best at following a scent.

Red and Mac made a bet as to who could stay under the water the longest. They both were drowned.

IZZY—“You have dropped a nickel, Papa.”

MOE—“Tch, tch, that you should notice it. Do you want people to think we are Scotch?”

Have you heard about the Scotchman who made a donation to charity? There was nothing to it.

There was a man from Calcutta;
He talked with a terrible stutta;
He screwed up his face,
When he tried to say grace,
And blew his false teeth in the butta.

“Why do you call her your Mohammedan girl?”

“Cause I Mecca do this and I Mecca do that.”

COLLEGE

"Whatchagotna packidge?"

"Sabook."

"Wassanaimubit?"

"Sadichshunery. Fullinaims. Wife's gonna gettaplicedog angottagetta-naimferim."

The coffee song—"Muddy Water."

V. I. GIRL (at a party)—"I seem to be the only one that's hungry here."

MEOW—"Oh, no. We're all hungry, but the rest of us are polite."

Two gentlemen of color were arguing about a game of craps. "See dat fist, useless?" said Mose, "When I hit you side o' de haid wid dat, you guine see down yo' back 'thout turnin' yo' haid." "Huh?" grunted Jasper, "Izzat so, street sweepings? See mah foot? Oncet I kicks yo' wid dat, ev'ry time you sits down yo leaves a foot print."

ROSE FREEDBERG—"And does the nice little cow give milk?"

EUNICE OSBORNE—"Well, not exactly, you gotta sort take it away from her."

OLGA—"Busy?"

HUSKEY—"No; you busy?"

OLGA—"No."

HUSKEY—"Then let's go to class."

A REAL JOKE

SECRETARY—"There's a drummer wanting to see you."

DR. NOFF—"Show him in."

"Julia, how can you study when Lil is typing?"

"Oh, I can read a chapter between clicks."

MR. BROWN—"Miss Griffith, have you read 'Romeo and Juliet'?"

POKEY (thoughtfully)—"Well, I've read 'Romeo,' but I don't believe I ever read 'Juliet'."

MISS EGBERT—"Doris, what is the effect of heat and cold on objects?"

DORIS CLARKE—"Heat expands and cold contracts."

MISS E.—"Good; give examples."

DORIS—"In summer the days are long and in winter they're short."

MISS MCCOY—"Iris, tell me something of the reign of Henry VIII."

"IKEY" JOHNSON—"Well, Miss McCoy, he was so cruel that he ironed Anne Boleyn."

MISS MCCOY—"Ironed her!"

"IKEY"—"The book said he pressed his suit on her."

BEE BOWMAN—"Sue, do you file your nails?"

SUE—"No, I cut 'em off and throw 'em away."

TOMMIE—"Tess, did you hear about the accident at K. C.?"

TERESA—"Why, no."

TOMMIE—"One of the boys opened the window and threw his chest out."

V. I.'s SONG OF WOE

(Tune: Roaming in the Gloaming)

Yawning in the morning,
When the rising bell has rung;
Yawning in the morning,
When the day has just begun;
How I wish I'd gone to bed
When the lights were flashing red (?);
Oh, it's awful—yawning in the morning!

1ST PIG—"I never sausage heat."

2ND PIG—"Yes, I'm nearly bacon."

BEN JOHNSON—"I went to the doctor and he said I have the clothes disease."

IBBY WARD—"How's that?"

BEN—"I have a coat on my tongue and my breath comes in short pants."

MOTHER (at Commencement)—"How come that girl didn't return your hello?"

DAUGHTER—"Oh, she's my suite-mate and she never returns anything."

ANY V. I. GIRL—"Gimme 25c worth o' scratch paper."

"What?"

A V. I. G.—"Hurry up! I've got the 'V. I. Spirit'."

Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these—we have no men.

"PAT" KARAYOUSEF—"Gosh, Tommie, where'd you learn to Black Bottom so wonderfully?"

T. T.—"Who, me? I crossed Fifth Avenue when the red lights were on."

KAT DAVIS (studying French)—"Je fus, tu fus, il—"

DOT—"Say, what's all that fuss about over there?"

Half an inch, half an inch, half an inch shorter,
The skirts are the same for mother and daughter;
When the wind blows,
Each of them shows
Half an inch, half an inch more than she oughter.

HELEN SPURRIER—"My roomie has been using a flesh-reducing roller for nearly two months."

"BILLIE" BLACK—"And can you see any result yet?"

HELEN—"Yes, the other roller is much thinner now."

"LIL" KARN (at show)—"Say, can't I get in here on my face?"

TICKET-SNATCHER—"Yes, get on all fours, hold your ears up and have someone lead you in."

ROOMMATE—"What's become of all our furniture?"

DITTO—"It's that little habit of yours of asking people to take a chair."

SPEAKING IN THE LANGUAGE OF SONG

"Are You Thinking of Me Tonight," "My Melancholy Baby?" "Yesterday" I got "One Sweet Letter From You," "Sugar Babe." I'll be comin' to you on "Cobblestones" to my "Cradle in Caroline."

NEW INVITATIONS: Your presents are requested at, etc.; it works fine.

V. I. always has the latest in sport notes: For example, Bacon a la Ederle (swimming in grease).

ST. PETER—"Who's there?"

VOICE WITHOUT—"It is I."

ST. PETER (peevd)—"Get outa here; we don't want any more school-teachers."

MR. DE CHAUDRON—"Miss Sims, you're the first one that ever went to sleep in my class."

SOPHIA—"Well, you gave me the dope, didn't you?"

JUNE THOMAS (contributor to the CAULDRON)—"What did you think of my last poem?"

"POKEY"—"Well, I'm glad you call it your last."

Calendar

SEPTEMBER

- 20—All trains Bristol-wards full of girls wearing the Black and Gold.
- 21—First Chapel exercise. We gleefully hail old girls and meet new ones galore.
- 24—Y. W. A.-Y. W. C. A. "Big Sister" party. Program in the Chapel, then refreshments and dancing in the gym.
- 25—We wear our Sunday-go-to-meetings to give Bristolians a good first impression.
- 28—Still sizing-up teachers to see in which classes we'll get our "cat-naps" this year.

OCTOBER

- 6—First issue of the Cauldron; we all subscribe(?).
- 12—An orchestra is organized with Mr. De Chaudron as its leader. "Classical music only!"
- 20—Senior rings are ordered.
- 24—We go to Virginia High for our first lyceum number—Louis Graveure, baritone.
- 27—Kiwanis Club takes V. I. "chickens" on their fall outing; this time to Lebanon, Va., where we are entertained at Maple Grove Inn.

NOVEMBER

- 5—Two ghostly plays given by the Expression Department give us the "heebie-jeebies" for a week.
- 13—V. I. is overrun with pirates—"yo-ho-ho 'n a bottle o'—pop!"
- 15—Philogike Debating Society has been organized and is holding regular meetings. We have some debaters, too!
- 23—"Abie's Irish Rose" is given at the Columbia and V. I. is enthusiastically represented.
- 25—Yum! A Thanksgiving banquet with turkey and all the "fixin's;" also waiters in tux's and an orchestra. Some of us lucky enough to go home for our one Thanksgiving holiday.
- 28—Sorority "goats" prove themselves useful as well as ornamental.

DECEMBER

- 1—Only sixteen more days—we can't wait.
- 1—Gabrilowitch thrills us in a wonderful piano recital.
- 4—V. I. basketballers begin practice.
- 9—Annual Sale held by the Art Class—that's the place to get all the dainty xmas presents you want. Debaters choose a subject for the year's inter-collegiates.
- 11—Lovely Xmas Vesper program given by Y. W. A. and Y. W. C. A.
- 16—Hurrah! Xmas holidays here at last!!!

JANUARY

- 7—Back again—boo-hoo! But, did we have a good time? And now, hard work and "just a memory"—until Easter.
- 8—We feel like we've jumped from the North Pole to the tropics for a few days.
- 12—Intermont Orchestra plays at a banquet at Kingsport. Aren't they steppin' out, though!
- 16—English Singers give us a very unusual and delightful program.
- 24-28—Exam week. Here's where we do a little studying. "I can't possibly pass it." "Goodness! I flunked that so flat!"

CALENDAR—Continued

FEBRUARY

- 1—Miss McCoy is back with us from Europe; we're surely glad.
- 4—Miss Harris of Richmond teaches a week's mission-study class. Y. W. A. Council gives her a kid party.
- 10—Statistics are voted on and announced after we have cussed and discussed every girl in school.
- 13—Trustees are here for lunch and we get a chance to sample that kind of food we might have at V. I.; also hear of plans for new buildings. Come on—we're betting on you, V. I.!
- 14—Valentine boxes—we're willing to suffer the consequences.
- 21—New Phi Theta Kappa members are announced.
- 29—Little tots and not such little tots of the Expression Department give us three "perfectly dahlin'" one-act plays. Pool is reopened.

MARCH

- 7—Part of the cast of "All-Aboard" gives us a sample performance in Chapel—some dancing!
- 8-9-10—Basket-ball games, every girl showing her pep either on the floor or on the "railing." Juniors victorious.
- 10—Roanoke College boys present "Cappy Ricks" in the Chapel and all V. I. turns out to see it.
- 11—Miss McCoy gives us a glimpse of the Holy Land by showing us costumes and lovely pictures.
- 22—Ship ahoy! for the Alumnae Treasure Hunt.
- 23—Julia Waters, assisted by Marjorie Gibson, gives a splendid opening to the recital season.
- 26—Wonderful Rosa Ponselle thrills us every one.
- 31—We greatly enjoy three one-act plays, the last for this year.

APRIL

- 1—We must behave ourselves; if not, no Easter holiday.
- 8—We all "priss" to church in Easter finery.
- 14—Debate. Intermont wins 3 to 0.
- 23—Junior-Senior banquet makes us all realize we'll really hate to leave when June comes around.
- 24—Mr. De Chaudron warns Spanish II class that if their health doesn't improve he'll give them D.
- 30—Do we have some future tennis champions? You bet!
- 30—Seniors are entertained again, this time in a "theatre party" given by Advanced Specials.

MAY

- 5—The privileged Seniors get a chance to study nature first-hand.
- 22-26—Senior exams—do I graduate or do I not?
- 27—Baccalaureate Sunday; caps and gowns.
- 28—Class Day—seems like we're going to our own funeral.

JUNE

- 1—Commencement. Good-bye, dear V. I. C.

by the service it renders*

SERVICE as applied to a department store must have a very broad meaning—must cover its entire field of operation, from the planning and buying of the right merchandise to final delivery to customer. To serve in a manner most beneficial has ever been our aim, which has been responsible for constant growth for more than a third of a century.
